

Administrative Information Management System (AIMS)

Supplies When and Where You Need Them

The Saskatchewan Health Authority is improving supply chain management, introducing a more convenient online process for ordering supplies with the implementation of the Administrative Information Management System (AIMS).

Orders are trackable from the creation of a requisition, the assignment of a Purchase Order, through to placing an order with a supplier. You can even follow the status of the order online.

All supplies have a unique SKU code, which ensures that you order the right product every time, and makes it easy to track inventory.

Real-time reporting of provincial inventory provides a snapshot of available supplies across the system, making it possible to move inventory between facilities if urgently needed.

These are just a few of the many benefits to come for supply chain management in 2020.
